

Langtry

The Langtry is defined by its ovoid glass body, enclosed within a delicately structured framework of extruded brass straps and a single encircling band. The form is crowned by a domed, boldly gadrooned canopy - its scalloped surface recalling classical metalwork and early gasoliers. A pierced finial completes the silhouette with architectural precision. Shown in the Letchworth finish with distressed gilt highlights - a time-softened bronze gently lifted by touches of gold.
